Work In Progress

The Children's Society report, 'A Good Childhood', says excessive individualism is responsible for a range of problems that cause children to leap ever earlier into an adult world of stress, consumerism and sexuality.

Without the traditional social structures or rites of passage that once helped them to cope, the premature socialization of children has led to a generation of young people struggling to occupy a meaningful place within society.

The aim of this project is to make a series of images that enable the viewer room to reflect on a child's role within modern society and on our own relationships with children.
